

Every single day is truly a gift and reminder of how close I actually came to losing it all... I survived, that means I am now a voice for those who did not.

Kristopher Muñoz,
Sepsis Survivor, Volunteer Community Leader

Have you or a loved one been diagnosed with sepsis?
Are you struggling with enduring symptoms as you recover?
Have you lost someone you love?

Sepsis, which was often called “blood poisoning,” is the body’s overwhelming and life-threatening response to infection which can lead to tissue damage, organ failure, and death. Each year, an estimated 1.4 million people survive sepsis and over 350,000 adults die from sepsis in the United States alone.

Sepsis Alliance Connect is a free virtual support community designed for these survivors, caregivers, loved ones, and those left behind after a sepsis death to come together and share resources, insight, and encouragement about their sepsis experience and life after sepsis. The community was launched by Sepsis Alliance in 2022 with the support of volunteer community leaders passionate about positively impacting the lives of those affected by sepsis.

Members can take part in free regularly scheduled programming including:

- Peer Support Conversations
- Affinity Groups
- A growing library of live and pre-recorded programs, exploring a range of topics from medical advancements, to mental health, to advocacy.

Visit SepsisConnect.org
to join for free today.